Members may specify the use of their gifts:

Designated Gifts: you may choose to support specific academic programs or departments, outreach, capital projects and improvements, undergraduate or graduate school scholarships, athletic programs or departments, or the general endowment.

General Gifts: undesignated gifts allow the College to direct your gift toward the educational and operational programs that have the greatest need at that time.

Student Scholarships: you can help protect Hillsdale College from the government regulations that come attached to taxpayer-funded federal and state student grants and loans, which are not accepted here. Legacy Society members may designate their gift to the general scholarship fund or the many other existing scholarship funds. They may also choose to establish a named endowed or annually donated scholarship with their own criteria.

Named Endowments: gifts can be designated by an individual or couple to a specific endowment fund that they have named; the annual income may be used to support the College's general operations, or a specific academic or outreach program.

About Hillsdale College

Hillsdale College is a private liberal arts college with approximately 1,600 students. Founded in 1844, the College remains, in the words of its Articles of Association, “grateful to God for the inestimable blessings resulting from the prevalence of civil and religious liberty and intelligent piety” in our nation and dedicated to “the diffusion of sound learning” that is “essential to the perpetuity of these blessings.” It is distinguished by its rigorous core curriculum, by its principled rejection of federal and state taxpayer funding, and by the pledge of its Board of Trustees to resist any attempts by the government to regulate its internal affairs.

Hillsdale promotes the principles of liberty nationwide through its national speech digest Imprimis, which has a monthly circulation of more than 7.5 million, and through several outreach programs, including the Center for Constructive Alternatives, one of the largest college lecture series in America; K-12 American classical education efforts, which help establish and support public charter and private schools; the National Leadership Seminars; the Hillsdale Hostels; and free online courses, which have been taken by nearly six million citizens.

The College also has three graduate programs: the Van Andel Graduate School of Statesmanship, which offers an M.A. and Ph.D. in politics; the Steve and Amy Van Andel Graduate School of Government, which is based in Washington, D.C., and offers an M.A. in Government; and the Diana Davis Spencer Graduate School of Classical Education, offering an M.A. in classical education.
